

High School Music Participation Recognition

Overview

This recognition is given annually to any South Dakota high school whose music programs demonstrate high involvement in music courses and activities. This recognizes the effectiveness of programs that offer attractive music curricula as well as those that excel in the recruitment and retention of students.

Schools which meet the criteria will hold the award for three years, during which time they may be reapply for the award at the same or different level of membership. If selected the school agrees to serve SDMEA as resource* on the topics of programming, scheduling, recruitment and retention of music students if called upon.

Serving as a resource might include examples of:

- how scheduling allows students to stay involved in music
- how the school, administration and faculty recruit students into their music department
- what kind of curriculum is used to retain students

SDMEA agrees to allow ample time for schools to comply to this request.
